Congrats Seniors

...to the end of one chapter and the beginning of the next...

A letter from President Cole

To the class of 2010

To the class of 2010:

Congratulations on reaching one of the most important milestones in your lives: your graduation from Montclair State University! You have worked hard, learned much, and experienced even more during your years here, and now as you look ahead to the next stage of your lives, you can do so with the confidence that you are well prepared for the future.

I hope that you will remember your time at Montclair State as a period of achievement and good times, and that you will always be proud of your association with the University.

As new graduates of the institution that Forbes named the top public university in New Jersey, you are following in the proud tradition of excellence for which Montclair State is known and I am sure that you will carry that tradition with you wherever you go.

You will also undoubtedly take with you many lasting memories of your years at Montclair State. The memories of the people you have met and the friends you have made, the familiar places where you spent time, your accomplishments and triumphs - all will become a part of what makes you who you are. I hope that your memories are happy ones and that all you have gained at Montclair State will be a source of strength, confidence, and pride for you.

On behalf of the University, I congratulate you on your success and I urge you to go forth with the same drive, perseverance, and commitment to excellence that helped you succeed at Montclair State. I am confident that those attributes will likewise help you succeed in your future endeavors. Do your best! Make us proud!

Best wishes and good luck,

Susan A. Cole

A Message From Your Vice President of Student Development and Campus Life

Dear Students,

Whenever I think of the students at Montclair State University I am filled with pride. When I see how you have grown in a few short years and all that you have become, I am impressed by your ability to work so hard to achieve your dreams. It amazes me how the University has grown during the first decade of the 21st century and how our focus has sharpened with each year. Visitors come to campus and are immediately taken by our facilities and the vitality of the students who use them. They often remark about the friendliness of our students, faculty and staff and they acknowledge our sense of community. Yes, we have grown in numbers of people and buildings but have somehow retained the grace and charm of a smaller place.

During your time here, so many of you have done so much to contribute to your colleagues, your faculty and to making the University a better place for those who will come after you. Many have made great strides toward contributing to the world at large. Throughout good and bad times both locally and globally, the members of the Montclair State University community have held together, always with a view toward a better tomorrow. You have made your mark on the campus and we are all better for you having taken this journey.

As you leave your undergraduate years to begin the next phase of your lives, may you take with you all of the best of your years here. I wish you many wonderful days ahead and look forward to your return to campus often.

Sincerely,

Karen L. Pennington, Ph.D.
Vice President for Student Development & Campus Life

A Message From Your Dean of Students

Dear Graduates:

Congratulations on attaining your college degree!

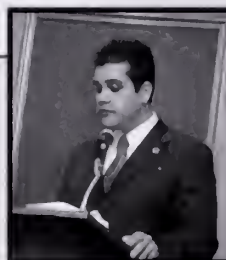

I am very proud of your accomplishment which shows your ability to work hard, persist, and remain committed to a goal. I know that times may have been challenging and your goal of degree completion seemed like a dream beyond your grasp. But you were relentless in your academic pursuit, developing and maturing as you moved closer to achieving your goal. These are the characteristics that you will need as you take the next step whether you are pursuing a post-baccalaureate degree or going into the job market.

Although life may present challenges, always remember to remain committed and to believe in your ability to succeed. Take what you have learned at Montclair State University and purpose to make a positive difference in society. I am confident that you will be successful!

Best wishes for a bright future.

Dr. Rose Mary Howell
'Your' Dean of Students

A Letter From

Fellow Graduates,

Congratulations on completing your baccalaureate degrees! This is definitely a milestone in our lives that we will look back on for years to come.

It's hard to imagine that college is over and we are already on our ways to the "Real World." I can recall coming to campus for the first time at freshman orientation and meeting so many new faces. It was quite the experience as it was filled with those awkward moments, numerous icebreakers, and of course a night's stay in Bohn Hall. Since then, we have each taken something unique out of our experience at Montclair State University.

While we've all been through some hardships: the infamous construction of a new Cali Music School, CarParc Diem, Panzer Gym, and the Rec Center that seemed to take forever to open, we've each had a positive experience. Some of us may have worked in Res life, others as student assistants in departments, and some just involved in a campus club or activity. Not only were they ways to pass the time and make some money, they provided us with invaluable experiences.

I'm sure this campus is full of memories of late night homework assignments, early morning fire drills, good times with friends, and passing time with your favorite people. These are definitely things that we will not forget as we each move our separate ways.

As we take this next step, whether you jump right into the "real world" or delay it a bit with grad school, I wish you all the best!

Sincerely,

Jon Preciado
SGA President 2009-2010

Your SGA President

Dear Fellow Classmates,

Congratulations Class of 2010! As a fellow graduate, I can share the excitement, anticipation, and relief as our undergraduate years have finally come to a close. Over the past two years as your student representative on our university's Board of Trustees, I have seen many things change for the better of this campus and your college life. I am very honored to state that I have oversaw the building of our very own John J. Cali School of Music, Frank Sinatra Hall, CarParc Diem, the upgrading and renovations on the Clove Road Apartments, as well as the recent construction on the new dorm facilities. With the excitement that these new buildings brought us, there were also many problems we faced, including parking. We can now successfully say that we have survived the parking dilemma that is Montclair State University, and we are stronger, better people for it.

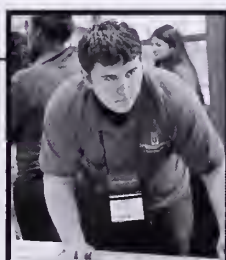

Although the trustee position I held was not very well known, I was able to help all of my fellow students here at Montclair State leave a better campus than when we arrived. It has been a pleasure to have voiced your concerns to various administrators and the Board themselves over these years; and I hope it made your college experience a better one. I appreciate everyone who voted for me into this position, and I hope I fulfilled all your expectations. The help I received from all of the students over the years greatly influenced me and made me a great asset to the Board. As my last act of representing the student body, I would like to extend an extremely sincere thank you to all faculty, staff, and administration for everything that you have done for us.

I wish you all luck on your future endeavors, and remember that you graduated from New Jersey's number one public school; an accomplishment that should live on with you forever. Carpe Futura, fellow graduates, as we enter a place that is no longer kept behind the closed doors of our classrooms, but now open to a world of opportunities.

Sincerely,

Ian Honauer
Student Board of Trustee 2009-2010

Our Dear Alma Mater

Beneath the Jersey skies so blue, in Montclair's mountain town.
There stands our College, tried and true and growing in renown.
We love thy campus, love thy halls, and oft to thee we raise, with loyal lips and loyal hearts united songs of praise.

All hail, all hail Montclair, to thee our voices raise,
Alma Mater, dear Montclair, our undying hymn of praise.

Emily Marie Bisnauth, 10

During my first year at Montclair State University my mother and grandmother passed away. I was heartbroken, to say the least. However, I vowed to uphold their honor by pouring my emotions into my education. With the invaluable guidance of MSU's faculty, particularly Dr. Howell, Dr. Rubin, Dr. Tayler, and Dr. Connolly I have been successful in my academic endeavors. This May I will be graduating with honors, and have received acceptances to New York University's M.A. program, as well as to Rutgers University's J.D. program. I am a true testament to achieving whatever you set your mind to, despite the hardships life may throw at you. We are all on a journey that we must complete. Never give up! Never let anyone tell you what you cannot do, fight for your dreams and you will be successful! The College of Humanities and Social Sciences has provided me with a strong foundation for my life's journeys. By pursuing double majors, and double minors, I have truly experienced a liberal arts education! In August I will enter Rutgers University School of Law to pursue my dream of becoming an attorney! Congratulations to my fellow members of the Class of 2010, against all odds we did it!

Double Majors: Jurisprudence, Justice Studies with Dual Concentrations in Justice Systems, and Paralegal Studies. Minors: Classics, Political Science

Ryan Michael Galler, 10

Everyone at the College of Humanities and Social Sciences has been extremely helpful over my four years at MSU. The Professors at CHSS were always available, always open minded, and always accepting your weaknesses and making them your strengths. Completing two majors and a minor under CHSS has been a difficult yet measurable experience. I will never forget my years at Montclair nor the relationships I have developed with some of the most talented professors at MSU. I will miss them all.

CSAM Student Spotlight!

Many individuals have ambitions they would like to accomplish in life and live their lives looking for the opportunities that will take them to where they want to go. For instance, some want to become teachers and pursue education. Others are interested in research. Adventurers backpack through Europe or take themselves to new heights, and still, others follow in their ancestors' footsteps by continuing a legacy. This individual before you made a choice. My decision was to become a physician and has furthered been influenced by my values. Promoting good health, helping others, and continuing a person's ability to live a long and fulfilling life are practices I've adopted since beginning my journey in medicine.

As a Molecular Biology major at Montclair State University, I believe I am well on my way to being prepared for the rigors of medical school and to one day become a Cardiothoracic Surgeon. With an average of 16 credit hours and active participation in numerous activities, such as the Minority Association of Pre-health Students (MAPS), Biology and Psychology Clubs, the American Society for Biochemistry and Molecular Biology and the American Association of Medical Assistants, I am accustomed to a full and busy schedule.

I am proud to say that I'm the first in my family to graduate high school, attend college, and now hopefully, the first to begin a legacy. Thanks to all the wonderful people I met throughout my undergraduate career that made this educational journey an unforgettable experience. Congratulations Class of 2010!

MATHEMATICS CSAM

The College of Science and Mathematics at Montclair State University serves the University, the State of New Jersey and the nation with academically rigorous programs for teaching and learning and for research in science and mathematics. The College offers strong disciplinary and interdisciplinary baccalaureate, certificate, master's and select doctoral programs reflecting contemporary needs and research foci in sciences and mathematics. Through an array of discovery-based courses and research opportunities, the College encourages learning of science and mathematics for all University students. Highly skilled faculty with internationally recognized credentials and research experience, who are actively engaged in scientific and mathematical discovery, teaching and learning, support all College activities. These professionals are committed to the highest standards of education in the classroom, the research laboratory and the field. The College provides the rich milieu that engages students in scientific depth and educational breadth to discover new knowledge and evaluate existing knowledge critically and rigorously. Discovery is the cornerstone of the educational and research mission within the College of Science and Mathematics.

striving for EXCELLENCE

The College of Education and Human Services at Montclair State University is dedicated to:

Providing quality undergraduate and graduate programs for both traditional and non-traditional students; developing professionals in education and the human services who will achieve the College's academic goals and meet requisite professional standards; and making available a host of other learning opportunities.

Supporting and engaging in service and scholarship (including local, national, and international collaborations) which add to the bodies of knowledge and practice in the disciplines represented in the College and which address the consequential issues faced by local, national, and global communities.

Collaborating with field-based professionals-based on parity, trust and mutual interests-to support the continued learning of experienced professionals and foster the simultaneous renewal of the preparation of professionals and of the professions and communities in which they serve.

College of The Arts

The Department of Art & Design at Montclair State University has been developing aspiring artists and designers for more than 40 years. Our graduates impact many areas of the arts, interpreting and giving shape to the visual world in which we live. The philosophy of our program hinges on the principle that students should be exposed to all facets of the visual arts, no matter what their concentration. To this end, students are encouraged to explore studies in many arts areas, building toward a portfolio of work that will assist them in establishing lives as artists/designers, historians, arts managers or educators.

Lorraine Yesenia Gonzales

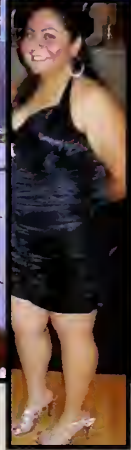

In my four years at Montclair State University, I have encountered a great deal of amazing experiences. As a Broadcasting Major and Sociology/Public Administration minor; both classes and professors have been major influences upon my studies. From being a former resident at Bohn Hall and Clove Road Apartments to a commuter; I have seen and witnessed it all. Montclair has introduced me to many different individuals, including some of my best friends today.

As an undergraduate I have been very involved on campus. I have been an active member in both Programming Board and L.A.S.O. Through these different organizations, I've managed to meet and form lifelong friendships, learned about different cultures, and enhanced my networking and coordinating abilities.

As a Broadcasting Major, the Dumont Television Center has been my home away from home. Located across Café Diem, a building that everyone else oversees has opened doors to internships at UNIVISION and MTV.

Although, I became highly involved within the MSU community, academics were always my main priority. During my years as an undergrad, I've managed to maintain a solid G.P.A. and have made Dean's List a few times.

Today, as all seniors are finally getting ready to close one chapter in their lives and encounter the ups and downs of the real world, we can surely say that our MSU days will always be remembered. Congrats to the Class of 2010!

School of Business

school of business... school of business...

The School Of Business of Montclair State University offers a range of outstanding undergraduate and graduate programs that prepare students for successful careers in business, non-profit institutions, and public service.

Our undergraduate programs are of primary importance. We prepare our students for entry and mid-level managerial positions, entry-level professional specializations, and entrepreneurial roles. Further, we equip them with the capacity to identify their own goals and to proactively manage their life-long career prospects.

Our graduate programs are of major importance. We prepare our master's degree students to be decision-makers, leaders, and entrepreneurs, ready for broad-spectrum managerial responsibilities or for success as higher level professional specialists.

We affirm our commitment to intellectual contributions that enhance our teaching, particularly applied scholarship and instructional development.

We employ our professional skills in service to the School, the University, scholarly and professional organizations, the business community, and the regional community.

SBUS student spotlight!

L My college experience at Montclair was one I will never forget. There were always assignments to do, tests to take, and papers to write, but for every tough assignment I can think of so many more great memories. As a business major, networking is huge. I made it a point to talk to as many people as I could, and being on such a diverse campus made networking something that I enjoyed. There are so many great people on campus, with very different backgrounds, all striving to be successful college graduates. I was able to seize the day everyday, and take memories from those wonderful days with me for the rest of my life.

Sincerely,
Jose Parra

In retrospect, looking at all the variables, it is difficult to take my experience at Montclair State University and put it into words. The lessons I have learned, the friends I have made, and the obstacles I had to overcome, like many, are far too momentous to be placed on paper. It is more than a thought or an idea that comes to mind, it is a feeling. A feeling that surpasses all others, because this feeling, is one of triumph. I feel a sense of pride when I think or speak of this institution, and it is a pride that cannot die, for it lives in us all, forever.

All the best,

Clayton H. A. Cole

John J. Cali School of Music

"Music washes away from the soul the dust of everyday life." ~Berthold Auerbach

John J. Cali School of Music is committed to providing a creative and challenging environment in which our students have access to a high-quality, affordable education and excellent faculty who inspire and prepare them to serve the community as educators, performers, composers, therapists, and scholars in the musical arts.

Values:

Learning The Cali School shall create well-rounded students in music and the liberal arts, with the skills and knowledge to pursue successful careers and to make meaningful contributions to society.

Creativity The Cali School shall foster musical creativity among students, faculty and the larger community served by the School.

Diversity The Cali School shall attract a student population and faculty that reflect the cultural diversity of our society.

Accessibility The Cali School shall seek to ensure that talent and the desire and ability to benefit from the educational programs of the School are the determinants of admission to the School, and that, through the provision of scholarship opportunities, students with those attributes shall not be prevented from access to the School as a result of financial need.

Community The Cali School shall contribute to broad access to rich musical experiences for the citizens of New Jersey, the nation and the world.

Our purpose as the Gotta Be Green Organization is to not only raise awareness of environmental issues that we face on a daily basis but to also encourage involvement in their solutions. We aim to do this by promoting environmentally friendly ideas and activities both on and off campus. One of our main goals is to convert Montclair State into an environmentally protective university. Through our efforts, we hope that over time MSU will become a renowned "Green Community".

We currently have 271 sisters. Our purpose is to have fun while building the bonds of sisterhood through academic achievement. Our colors are aqua, black, and white.

Alpha Kappa Psi

"Principled Business Leaders"

III" Alpha Kappa Psi is the oldest and one of the largest professional business fraternities. The Alpha Kappa Psi Fraternity was founded on October 5, 1904 at New York University, and was incorporated on May 20, 1905. It is currently headquartered in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Alpha Phi Omega

"Be a Leader, Be a Friend, Be of Service"

The purpose of this Fraternity shall be to assemble college students in a National Service Fraternity in the fellowship of principles derived from the Scout Oath and Law of the Boy Scouts of America; to develop Leadership, to promote Friendship and to provide Service to humanity; and to further the freedom that is our national, educational, and intellectual heritage.

Delta Sigma Theta

"Intelligence is the Torch of Wisdom"

Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. is a private, non-profit organization whose purpose is to provide assistance and support through established programs in local communities throughout the world. A sisterhood of more than 200,000 predominately Black college educated women, the Sorority currently has over 900 chapters located in the United States, England, Japan (Tokyo and Okinawa), Germany, the Virgin Islands, Bermuda, the Bahamas and the Republic of Korea. The major programs of the sorority are based upon the organization's Five Point Thrust of:

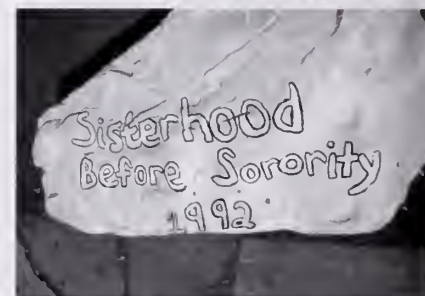

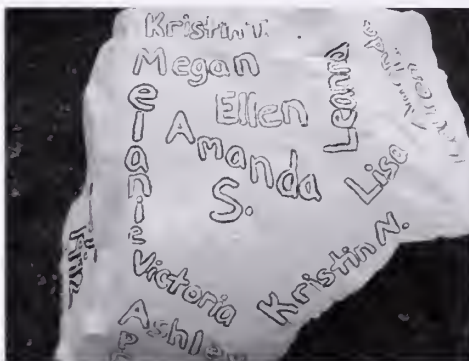

- * Economic Development
- * Educational Development
- * International Awareness and Involvement
- * Physical and Mental Health
- * Political Awareness and Involvement

Delta Phi Epsilon

"Esse Quam Videri, To Be Rather Than to Seem to Be"

Delta Phi Epsilon was Nationally founded on March 17, 1917. On September 25, 1988, the Alpha Eta Chapter of Delta Phi Epsilon was founded by 20 active sisters of Phi Chi Omega. Delta Phi Epsilon develops a social consciousness and a commitment to think and act for the greater good. They assure continuous development and achievement for women by embracing our founding principles of Justice, Sisterhood, and Love.

Lambda Tau Omega

"Excellence Through Unity, Knowledge and Dedication"

Lambda Tau Omega is a multicultural sorority founded in 1988 at Montclair State College, now known as Montclair State University, in Montclair, New Jersey. The sorority was founded by sixteen women who felt the need for a multicultural sorority at Montclair State College. Dissatisfied with the options of Greek organizations available at their school, they created Lambda Tau Omega.

Purpose

The purpose of Lambda Tau Omega shall be to foster and preserve the spirit of sisterhood while promoting high standards of achievement, women empowerment, multiculturalism and dedication to noble service with primary focus on the welfare of children

Lambda Theta Alpha

"Unity, Love and Respect"

The purpose of Lambda Theta Alpha shall be to provide a sisterhood based on Unity, Love, & Respect. To develop strong Leaders who will then provide and practice political, social and cultural activities. To promote Latino Unity through charitable and educational programs. To maintain a high standard of learning and serve as a voice for all Latino students.

Mu Sigma Upsilon

"Mujeres Siempre Unidas, Women Always United"

MU SIGMA UPSILON SORORITY, INC.

was founded on November 21, 1981 at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, as the first
Multicultural Greek Letter Society,
celebrating the abundance of cultures that comprise our
Sorority for the last 26 years. The founders were five women determined to establish an organization that brought together not just women of the same background, but all women. It was their limitless vision that enabled these determined women to break down the barriers and build the bridges that connected women from all different parts of the world. Hence, our motto "Mujeres Siempre
Unidas," or "Women Always United.

Phi Beta Sigma

"Culture For Service and Service For Humanity"

The brothers of Phi Beta Sigma are the Fraternity's most valuable resource and strength. They are the primary means by which the Phi Beta Sigma objectives will be achieved. In order to accomplish the Fraternity's objectives, it is essential that systems are instituted that effectively embody "Culture For Service and Service For Humanity" and promote brotherhood, scholarship and service.

Sigma Delta Tau

"Patraie Multae Spes Una, One Hope of Many People"

Sigma Delta Tau was nationally founded on March 25, 1917 and locally founded on January 26, 1990. Since then they have initiated over 45 pledge classes and currently have 33 active sisters.

Active Sisters

Sigma Sigma Sigma

"Faithful Unto Death"

Sigma Sigma Sigma's mission is to establish among its members a perpetual bond of friendship, to develop in them strong womanly character, and to impress upon them high standards of conduct.

Sigma Sigma Sigma inspires exceptional life long learning and friendships. Sigma Sigma Sigma values are wisdom, power, faith, hope and love.

Zeta Phi Beta

"A Community-Conscious, Action-Oriented Organization"

Zeta Phi Beta is an international, historically black Greek-lettered sorority and a member of the National Pan-Hellenic Council.

Zeta Phi Beta is the only NPHC sorority that is constitutionally bound to a fraternity, Phi Beta Sigma. The sorority maintains affiliations with several organizations including American Diabetes Association, March of Dimes, American Cancer Society, American Red Cross, National Council of Negro Women, and the United Negro College Fund

THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Students for the Students

THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION, INC. IS A STUDENT-RUN CORPORATION THAT INCLUDES WITHIN ITS STRUCTURE DIFFERENT SERVICES TO MEET THE NEEDS OF THE UNDERGRADUATE STUDENT BODY. THIS INCLUDES, BUT IS NOT LIMITED TO, PROVIDING DISCOUNTED SERVICES, ORGANIZING STUDENT PROGRAMMING, AND PROMOTING STUDENT ADVOCACY. THE SGA ALSO CHARTERS ALL STUDENT RUN ORGANIZATIONS ON CAMPUS, WHICH PROGRAM THE MAJORITY OF CAMPUS ACTIVITIES. THESE EVENTS RANGE FROM MUSIC CONCERTS, THEATRICAL EVENTS, PUBLICATIONS, TO CULTURAL AWARENESS EVENTS. THE SGA MOTTO IS "YOUR CAMPUS, YOUR IDEAS, YOUR SGA."

FORMED IN 1925 AS "THE STUDENT COUNCIL" AND INCORPORATED IN 1959 AS "THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION," THE SGA OFFICE IS LOCATED IN THE STUDENT CENTER ANNEX, ROOM 103, AND THEIR PHONE NUMBER IS (973) 655-2202. THE SGA IS COMPOSED OF THE THREE SEPARATE BUT EQUAL BODIES, THE EXECUTIVE, THE LEGISLATIVE, AND THE JUDICIAL BRANCHES.

Meet Your SGA

Jonathan Dreclado
Executive President

Since his Freshman Year, Jon has been involved with the SGA. Starting off as a legislator, he worked closely with his peers to make the campus a better place.

He wrote bills to advocate for better facilities on campus, and for programs to make life more enjoyable. Through the years Jon progressed in his roles and responsibilities by becoming Student Advocate, Greek Council President, and SGA President. Each new role opened new doors and gave him the opportunity to work with a diverse group of students, faculty, and administrators. Jon says,

"While I've learned so much about management and leadership, the most important thing I take away is the experience of interacting with so many diverse and dedicated people. While my Undergraduate career has drawn to an end, I plan to take these experiences with me to the workplace. The SGA has truly made me a better person, and I appreciate everything that the organization has done for me."

Michael Morano
Exec. Vice President

Since his acceptance to Montclair State, Michael has had the opportunities to take advantage of an array of multidisciplinary experiences. He will graduate with two degrees; one in Physical Education & Health, and the other in Athletic Training, along with a concentration of classes in Chemistry and Molecular Biology totaling about 225 credits overall. When he leaves Montclair, he will be taking with him much more than an education, but the full college experience. Mike is a member of PSJ, NJAHPERD, NATA, ATSNJ, has been President of the Athletic Training Club, Captain of the Rugby team, and Vice President of the SGA. After graduation Mike will find a job in education either as a teacher or an Athletic Trainer and from there return to school as soon as possible to earn a postgraduate degree. Mike says, "I my time here I have learned, above all, the importance of a healthy mind, a healthy body, and a strong spirit. I hope that all my fellow graduates learn to live by this ideology of the Renaissance; and for those who come after me, may they learn as much as they can in the short time they have here. To knowledge, goodness, and spirit; good luck and God bless. Cheers."

Executive Board

Arun is a Mathematics Education major with a Theater minor. For as long as Arun can remember, he has been actively involved with the Student Government. During his Freshman Year he was a legislator and chaired the Elections Committee. He continued his work as a legislator and became Chair of Appropriations his Sophomore Year. In addition to Student Government, Arun has been the Treasurer for the reputable and award winning, Indian Culture Club. For Arun, any type of student involvement is an essential key factor to a wonderful college experience. Arun says, "There's more to college than just a classroom! Join something!" He feels being involved helps you grow as an individual and teaches you so many life lessons that you cannot learn in any given classroom. Getting involved also helps create networks that can become life-long friends. Arun can vouch that this aspect of college is what he will remember and cherish the most.

Arun Bhambri
Executive Treasurer

Danielle is an English major with a K-5 certification. Currently, she is student teaching and plans to be an elementary school teacher when she graduates. She's not just stopping at an undergraduate degree though; Danielle plans to go for her Master's Degree in Special Education and possibly work towards a doctorate.

Danielle has been active in the SGA. She was a legislator her sophomore and junior years. To her the SGA is a great collegiate experience. SGA gave her an opportunity to meet other student leaders with the same goal in mind, serving other students to the best of their abilities and solving any issues that were feasibly possible. The SGA is like a second family to her. She says, "We laugh, we debate, and we share all the in-between times together. I have met some of my best friends through this organization and it has been a pleasure serving the students the past three years." As an Executive Board member she had the opportunity to work alongside her peers to govern the student body. Danielle also states, "My collegiate experience was definitely one for the books and it wouldn't have been the same without my SGA experiences."

Top Five Stories of 2010

The Montclarion ran a poll on its website, www.themontclarion.org for two months. The students select the top five stories of the year. The articles selected represent a small taste of what happened on campus, student life, news and much more. Some of the top articles range from new dorms to soccer championship.

COMING HOME

Kulsoom Rizvi
Staff Writer

Yesterday marked eight years of U.S. involvement in Afghanistan. Almost 100 veterans study at Montclair State University, and nine of them willingly shared their experiences, thoughts and stories of their journey overseas, and the transition coming home. Originally from Georgetown, Mass., David Gisonno, a junior at Montclair was only two months into his marriage before being deployed to Iraq in February 2003.

"It was very, very hard. She was of course sad, Gisonno said of his wife. "But she accepted it."

Gisonno spent approximately a year in Korea, and stopped in Kuwait for 15 months before heading over to Iraq to work with communications.

"I kept a picture of my wife, and talked to her as much as I could to stay normal, and keep my feet on the ground," he said. "The friends I made [in Iraq] also helped me stay focused. We would talk about our family and plans after service. We would just help each other out and keep each others' heads focused."

Twenty-three-year-old Yoan Hermida enlisted in the Army straight out of high school at the age of 17 as a combat engineer.

Hermida enlisted in April 2003, and deployed to Iraq in September 2003.

"I supported the invasion in Iraq, and it felt hypocritical to support a cause but not be part of it. The guys in my unit would tell stories about firefights, and how hot it would be once we got over there, which actually ended up being true. If you're not afraid, there is something wrong with you."

Similar to Hermida, 24-year-old Romeo Alcidi also enlisted at the age of 17 and decided to enlist due to past family ties with the military.

"My dad was the general in the Philippines, so it felt kind of like a responsibility to enlist," he said. "My mother was hesitant at first, and my dad passed away when I was nine, but I know he would have been proud."

Alcidi admitted he was more scared of coming back handicapped from the war than death because "I wouldn't be able to fully live my life." Living in Daytona Beach, Florida, 28-year-old Kenny Svolto's life before deploying to Afghanistan consisted of working full-time at a biker bar and a family restaurant as a cook and going to school at Day Beach Community College.

"I told myself after getting my associate degree [that] I didn't want to go into [the] restaurant industry."

Svolto's plans were originally to take a couple of months off in the Florida Keys before heading back to school, but plans soon changed after all three of Svolto's vehicles broke down within several weeks.

After searching for jobs, Svolto landed a job as an inventor's assistant where the inventor was quadriplegic, and inventing a stand up wheel chair.

"I basically got paid four dollars an hour, and any royalties, so I was just like this is ridiculous. I'm joining the army. I knew what I was getting into; and once I signed the dotted lines, and they told me I was enlisted, I felt safer."

Svolto recalled an incident which occurred either the day of Sept. 11 or after at a bar frequently visited.

"While I was playing pool, two guys were sitting at the counter drinking, and their attitude about why [9/11] happened, and their attitudes about people seemed misinformed," he described. "[They] were trying to explain why it happened saying racial slurs, and I knew they were completely wrong. I felt like proving these people wrong, and the best way to do that was to join the Army."

Svolto left for Afghanistan in November 2007. He said his mom was upset but not angry, dad was proud and everyone else was just concerned.

Twenty-five-year-old Brian Shaw's parents were also hesitant about his decision to enlist in the army.

"I was unsure of what I wanted to do with the rest of my life," he said.

The summer before he was deployed, Shaw described it as an usual summer break; but as the time got closer to leave, he felt a rush of nervousness and excitement. "At the time, you don't know what to expect, or what you're going to do," he said.

As an 18-year-old growing up in Harlem, Jose

Mercado, now 53, decided to enlist in the Marine Corps during the Vietnam Era, since jobs were scarce due to the economy.

Mercado has experience as a master Sergeant, combat engineer, drill instructor, S-3 Training officer, assistant operation chief military police and aircraft crash fire and rescue.

Mercado served three tours in Hawaii, Iwakuni in Japan.

Arriving to a new life

When first stepping into Kuwait, Hermida described the area as a poor, third world country similar to Cuba, where he is from. The sight of bullet holes, punctured buildings and the scene of destruction finally made Hermida realize that he was in a war zone.

Twenty-seven-year-old Robert Marks left for Iraq June 2008, and came home this past June. He described his first time leaving the base for a ISR surveillance mission overlooking a main supply route.

"Once you start gearing up and leaving the security of the compound, the mood changes, and it becomes serious and real," he said.

Twenty-four-year-old Ana Cordoba who enlisted in the National Guard at the age of seventeen remembered flying from Kuwait to Iraq on Sept. 11. "That day made it more memorable for me," she said. Hermida described the locals of Iraq as "very proud people" and had expected them to treat the soldiers more as "occupators" and not as "liberators."

"We are the ones with the guns, but we talked to Iraqi soldiers who had a different perspective and were almost like peers. Even with the language barrier, we talked about how our families are back home and how to say 'goat' in Arabic. They were welcoming but also cautious."

"Frustrating" and "impossibility" were the words Svolto chose to describe Afghanistan.

"[The enemy] would hide under the cover of women and children, and even though we know those people are bad, we can't bomb women and children. They keep them around for that."

Svolto added that there is a trust issue between the Afghani people and themselves.

Afghani civilians were given the opportunity to be employed by the Coalition which caused death threats from other locals.

"[The locals] would have small explosives placed outside someone's hut, and they would set it off to scare them, and sometimes to kill them," Svolto explained.

While most of the men brought game stations with them to Iraq as a form of entertainment and stress-relief, Hermida preferred reading biographies on generals, The Corps series and the Brotherhood of War series by W.E.B Griffin which were based on stories from WWII. Hermida said that he read stories with "happy endings."

Calling back home helped Alcid stay sane and avoid thinking and worrying about what's going on with family back home.

Living conditions in Iraq, as Hermida described, were "nothing I would even want my worst enemy to experience."

For Hermida, there was a lack of sleep. He would have the habit of waking up early in the morning and not sleeping during the daytime.

"Whenever we were assigned to control checkpoints along the main highway in Iraq called Route Tampa, we would have to sleep on the ground or in our vehicles," he said.

When it came to sleeping, Shaw said he would crash anywhere from the top of his truck to the bottom of the truck.

"I was a kid who liked to play Army so it was a pretty unique experience for me."

Shaw and his unit found an old palace of Saddam Hussein which was flooded to stop American troops from occupying it.

"It took about a week to clean and there were all these Polaroids of Saddam lying everywhere," Shaw recalled.

Nights were pitch black in the castles and Shaw admitted there was not much to complain about except for when he reached for his ice tea and grabbed someone's dip spit instead.

"I knew this [would] all be over soon, and I knew the people around me were going through the same thing," he said.

Shaw was stationed in Germany for his five years of active duty. He was deployed to Iraq in 2003 and went back again in 2005 as an MP.

"I loved being in Germany. I was actually planning on staying there but once we got to Kuwait, it was much different and it looked like a different part of the world," Shaw described. "Before we shipped [to Iraq] we had a huge sandstorm and there was just dust everywhere."

Cordoba remembered the dust storms while she was in Iraq and described how her and three friends were got trapped in a storm.

Cordoba added that the infantry unit she was with never had interactions with women. In Cordoba's company, there were over 150 males and only three females.

"After a couple of months, we became family. It was hard at first being a female, and trying to prove that you're strong, and you can do this but we all adjusted pretty well.

31-year-old Bill Lugo first enlisted in the army back in 1997 at the age of 19. Lugo served in OIF III back in 2005 for the Army Reserve, stationed in the city of Kirkuk.

"I remember the thick smell of oil everywhere when I first arrived. It was like being in a room full of onions that you can't escape," he said.

Lugo worked on an airfield that was run by the Air Force to manage cargo and passengers on C-23 Sherpa planes.

The veteran described his team as a "small-movement control team where everyone would alternate 12-hour day and night shifts.

"I enjoyed the night shifts because it was cool out, was favorable for calling the EST time zone and the night sky was always clear as can be. Every night was filled with bright stars and a clear moon. A camera can't do it justice; I've tried."

The times Hermida interacted with the Iraqi children were some of the happy memories he remembered while being there. Hermida described the kids as "high spirited" and "inquisitive."

"The kids acted like kids everywhere. Seeing the kids was really nice. They would bring Iraqi food for us and called all the soldiers 'mister,'" Hermida laughed. Hermida recalled an incident where a fellow soldier named Dallas was killed in his army vehicle after driving over a mine just a few weeks after talking to Hermida.

"He was more a friend of a friend, but it was terrible. You don't get a lot of time to really think about it too much. It hits you later but it's good not to dwell on it; keeps you sane."

On one base, Alcid remembers stationing on top of this one roof where he saw a group of people who launched a mortar, like a pipe bomb, and it went over and hit one of the kids.

"[The group of people] asked us to help the kids but we couldn't because it was really dangerous. It didn't look too good for the kids, and I felt bad but I don't know what else to say. They did it to themselves."

Coming home to Montclair

"Getting out of the plane and seeing the leaves on the trees and the green grass felt good. It was nice to see the green again," Marks said about the flight back home from Iraq.

Coming home was an exciting moment for Hermida, but there was the constant thinking about what he had done in Iraq, and where his fellow soldiers were. He also got into the habit of running more frequently. Before deciding to apply at Montclair spring of 2005, Hermida applied to a school in Massachusetts, but decided he did not want to be away from home again.

Besides getting back into the study habits, Hermida did not have much trouble adjusting to the new environment, even though it had been a couple of years since he was last in a classroom.

"I was lucky enough to receive aid under the new GI Bill, which was a much better resource for veterans than the old GI Bill," he said. "It was just the icing on the cake. I was able to pay for school, books and living," he said.

Hermida added that whenever he sees military vehicles, he immediately gets flashbacks of what it's like to be in one of them, and of all the hours and hours he spent on them.

For Alcid, there were certain things he was able to do in Iraq that was not suitable here. Alcid's mom was having picnic in a grassy area and instead of parking on street, Alcid drove the car on the grass.

"We would have our Humvees going everywhere, and it was something I had to break out of," he said.

Alcid started his own clothing line called FOAM, which originated when he attended Ramapo College.

"While I was president of a fraternity, we needed t-shirts and instead of someone else making them I decided to do it myself. I guess it was that army mentality."

Alcid's urban hip-hop style clothing line has been in business for a year and called for an emergency promotion where all the profits made were donated to the recent typhoon that hit the Philippines and displaced 400,000 people out of their homes and killed a couple hundred others.

Cordoba admitted she had mixed feelings about going home.

"I was happy but sad. I got used to the routine and my buddies became my family," she said. "Life was simple here I think."

Before Cordoba left for Iraq, the veteran was attending Montclair. Coming back to school was difficult, Cordoba explained, and is still adjusting to the transition.

"It hasn't been easy. There were some complications with admissions but I was able to come back and study."

Cordoba will be heading off to Sgt. Academy tomorrow for two-and-half weeks in Fort Dix.

Coming back, Svolto knew that the type of work he did in Afghanistan was what he wanted to do in the states.

The veteran applied at the Philadelphia Police Department while he was in Afghanistan, however, due to a hiring freeze, Svolto decided to go back to school.

Svolto works in the office of Veteran and Military Resources at Montclair part time, and thinks the school is on the forefront of keeping abreast with accommodating veteran and military students.

"The Veteran and Military Resource office is brand new, it makes an effort to simplify the matriculation process for veterans. It is collaborating with all the necessary components which allow Veterans to use the GI Bill and National Guardsmen to use their education benefits."

When asked about what comments Svolto had about the current situation in Afghanistan, the veterans responded: "We've been there for eight years, and it's getting worse, and will continue to get that way. The enemy will be more collaborative, more coordinated in their attacks and will be able to increase their numbers."

Svolto added that from personal conviction, there was a better distinction between the people you could trust and the one's you could not.

"That's happening less and less and from some personal conviction, threats against the U.S., against the west, will never go away. It is a reality, we all have to live."

Hermida admitted that the reason for invading Iraq might not all have been truthful but the ultimate goal was to eliminate a dictator, and it was accomplished.

"There is a group of college-aged kids willing to serve this nation, and put everything on the line for that idea," he said. "Even anti-war movements should respect soldiers and appreciate the young veterans."

As Svolto was walking on campus, he noticed a bunch of words written in chalk on the sidewalk near the library like "peace" and "love."

"I wondered who wrote it and why. Do they know what it means to be without it?"

2,000 More Beds for MSU

*Kristie Cattafi
Editor-in-Chief*

Montclair State University will start construction on two new student-housing units by the Recreation Center this spring.

The new dorms are planned to be built in lot 24 A, a parking lot below the Rec. Center and lot 22, a parking lot north of the Rec. Center.

The new dorms will hold 2,000 beds for freshman and sophomore students while taking away 700 parking spaces, Vice President for University Facilities Greg Bressler stated.

This will be the first new construction project under the New Jersey Economic Stimulus Act of 2009, signed by former Gov. Jon Corzine this past August. The bill allowed public universities to hire private contractors to build on campus.

"It gave us the authority to enter into a public-private contract on our campus," Bressler said. "Before that we were working with private developers off campus."

MSU was recently planning off-campus housing in downtown Montclair, but since the stimulus bill was signed, plans were canceled.

Capstone Development Cooperation, which was going to build the off-campus dorms, is now building the new on-campus dorms.

The two buildings, known as the Hillside Site and the Rec. Center Site, will be an "H shaped" building, with laundry rooms, common space and a new dining facility.

"There's going to be group development that can actually happen right in the building," Bressler said. "It's common space, but can also function as a classroom."

The new dorms will be right next to the new parking garage that should be finished this August. The new deck was built over two surface lots taking away 400 parking spaces, but should create 1,530 new spaces.

The two new dorms will also be joining our latest addition, Frank Sinatra Hall, which is located in between the Clover Road Apartments and the Village Apartments.

The university will, technically, be leasing the land to Capstone, and students will have to pay rent directly to them.

"They have to operate it within our current room rates," Bressler said.

According to Bressler, Capstone has to put the price together as a total package.

This includes factoring the cost of designing, building and operating the dorm to pay off the debt of construction and calculate the lease rate of the property all in the current room rate structure.

"It's kind of a balancing act on the developers part," Bressler said. "They have to develop it and put it together in a fashion that a person living here would be paying the same rate as someone living in the village."

Construction is anticipated to be complete by August 2011 and students will be able to move.

"Come Dance With Me" At Sinatra Hall

*Kelly Jones
Staff Writer*

"Frank Sinatra" has officially been released as the name that MSU students picked for the new dorm, according to Karen Pennington, vice president for student development and campus life.

The results from the campus wide poll came in last week and Frank Sinatra was on top with 506 votes. He was followed by Walt Whitman in second with 125 votes and in third was Albert Einstein with 119 votes.

A total of 2,379 votes came in to the university. The survey process was similar to the naming of the Village Apartments.

Some of the other nominees that appeared on the first survey were John Holland, George Inness, Alfred Kinsey, Doris Duke, Milton Freedman, Thomas Edison, Albert Einstein, Margret BourkeWhite, Paula Danziger, Aaron Burr. Some names that students had written in were Nellie Morrow Parker, became the first African-American public school teacher in Bergen County in 1922; Admiral William F. Halsey, born and raised in Elizabeth; Nicholas M Butler, educator, author and winner of Nobel peace prize in 1931; Sam Mills, MSU Alum and NFL player; Elizabeth Coleman White, introduced the nation's first cultivated blueberry.

"I think it's really cliché," Senior Allison Andresini said, "I think the new dorms should be named after Kate Russell. I didn't know her well, but I think it would be a nice touch."

The new dorms will be located between the Village and Clove Road Apartments. It will be comprised of 6 floors and 303 beds in an apartment style suite.

4-PEAT!

Nelson DePasquale
Sports Editor

Men's Soccer has won their fourth NJAC Championship in as many years.

The ninth-ranked Red Hawks shut-out Rowan in a 1-0 victory at Sprague Field this past Saturday for the title. All the offense that was needed came in the 16th minute from senior defender William Griffin, who headed in a throw-in from junior Mike Krol. This win officially silenced the critics arguing whether or not this Red Hawk squad would thrive with the loss of Tyler Masterson and Nick Mele, who, now, play professionally in Puerto Rico.

"It was just great," senior midfielder and captain Michael Cullen said. "The whole season, everybody kind of gave us stuff, they thought we weren't as good as we were because we lost so many guys. But it feels good to come back and win another championship, and prove everybody wrong."

"Well, we had seven new starters," goalie Teddy Ritter said, who was a starter for the first time this season. "I've been sitting the bench for four years I haven't seen a lick of play, and to be able to come in here and win our fourth championship, something that will never be done again in the NJAC, possibly to be a part of history. It doesn't get any better than this."

This win was, no doubt, an entire team effort. Every player on the field felt the heat and pressure of Saturday night's game. Rowan's sophomore forward Frank Renna got the attention of everyone at the game as he heard jeers for his rough play. He, eventually, got the attention of the referee, who gave him a yellow card for tripping up speedy Sean Tyree, a freshman midfielder for the Hawks.

Defensive, hard and strong play won this game for the Red Hawks.

"This is the kind of game where we didn't get the goals that we wanted, but hard work is actually what won the game," Michael Cullen said. "We were pressuring hard the whole time, making sure we were defensively disciplined. And, that kind of stuff can still win games. You don't have to score four goals, one goal can do it if you're disciplined, and everybody works hard."

Despite a rough, hard-fought NJAC game, our Hawks were able to hold the one-goal lead and shut down Rowan's offense by consistently applying the pressure. Rowan only managed nine shots on goal compared to MSU's 16. Nevertheless, it was a rough game for the whole 90 minutes.

"We knew the ref was going to let us play," senior midfielder Joe Cullen said, who was right in the middle of the action. "We haven't had him before, but before the game we talked to him, and he said he is going to let a lot of the little stuff go and let us play. That's what it should be, he's not going to call the little stuff, so he let us play. It was hard fought both ways, and we came out on the right end of it."

"Every conference game is real heated," Michael Cullen said. "Especially with Rowan. It's a good rivalry, it's fun and that's how the games always end up. They are always fast, physical, hard. That's NJAC soccer for you." "Anytime you come out against Rowan, Rowan is going to give their heart and soul on the field," Ritter said. "They're a great opponent. The first game of the season we won 2-1 against them, it could have gone any other way. I mean, they're a bunch of brutes, man. They are going to come out there, and they're going to throw the fists around, and throw their hearts out there and wear their emotions on their sleeve. But you got to match it, you have to overcome it, and that's why we came out with a 1-victory. It's all about character. It's all about coming up in the big game. We should have put a few away, but you know what, 1-0 is better than losing."

Winning four NJAC Champions in a row is a feat that has only been done by Trenton State (TCNJ) in the 60s and Glassboro State (Rowan) in the 80s. This team accomplished something that may never happen again, and they should be proud. When asked who was to be credited for this amazing accomplishment, Joe Cullen answered:

"Everyone, from front to back, from the coaching staff to the last guy on the bench to the first guy on the field, everyone put in the work all season long, and we got what we got because of it."

The hard work doesn't end here. They are hosting either Stevens or York College in the second round of the NCAA Division III tournament this Sunday at Sprague Field at 1 p.m.

Going Green, MSU? Don't Forget About the Blue!

Nelson DePasquale
Sports Editor

All of the recent buzz around Montclair State has been about new buildings, dorm rooms, parking decks and even the campus' latest attempts to "go green" and become environmentally friendly.

But one vital aspect that the University seems to keep overlooking is quality handicap accessibility.

With all the talk about our campuswide green initiatives, it's obvious that what we're really neglecting the color blue, which is used to designate areas of handicapped accessibility and signs.

The investigative report on services for students with mobility issues, found on the front page of this issue of The Montclarion, investigates the handicap accessibility, or the lack thereof, on Montclair State University's campus.

This article states that out of the 18,171 grads and undergrads enrolled at MSU, 750 students are registered with the Disability Resource Center, located in Morehead Hall. That's just over four percent of the student body. At least five of these registered students require the use of a wheelchair. Although there are only five registered wheelchair users, the exact number is believed to be higher because those with mobility issues are not required to register with the DRC.

The special report also mentions a student named Tim Shin, currently the only residential student who uses a wheelchair. Although he lives in a double-size room in Russ Hall, Shin was placed on the third floor, which is the highest floor. One would think that any wheelchair users on campus would be placed on the first floor of the building, not the highest.

Shin explained that until he returned to school this winter, the rooms in Freeman Hall were totally inaccessible due to the lack of a ramp into the dormitory. Even still, the hallways are narrow and virtually impossible to navigate. In Richardson, wheelchair navigation is nearly impossible in the narrow hallways.

Surprisingly, it's not just the older buildings that have a problem with accessibility. Panzer Gym and Chapin Hall were both recently renovated, but still don't have working electric doors.

Don't get us wrong, Montclair State University does adhere to the American Disability Act, although they aren't passing with flying colors. They provide practically the bare minimum for handicap students.

On Ramapo College's campus every building is completely handicap accessible and every handicap student living on campus is placed in a first floor room. Why can't Montclair State be the same way?

The main point all of us here at The Montclarion are trying to make is simple: don't overlook the physically disabled community here at Montclair State.

No matter how small the number of people that use wheelchairs is, we need to have fully accessible buildings. It's just not fair for people to have to suffer the consequences of an inaccessible campus.

We all pay the same tuition rates, we all deserve to get into a building without having it seem like some type of obstacle course.

The university prides itself with being one of the most diverse campuses, yet we are overlooking so many students and visitors who need fully accessible buildings, and frankly, we think it's their right to have them.

With all of these new renovations and construction going on all over campus, let's not forget about the simple things. Things that include allowing all students to get to class or their dorms with ease.

It may seem like it's not a big deal, but to some students, it's a struggle to get a class and travel around the campus every day.

We shouldn't tolerate the difficulty that students with mobility issues encounter when they want to take a shuttle bus ride to the Village just because he or she is in a wheelchair.

The accessibility situation we have on campus is absurd and it must be dealt with as soon as possible.

So, maybe while all these great new buildings are being constructed, and renovations are giving our campus a needed facelift, why not make the effort to have a fully accessible campus and make this university truly welcoming and diverse.

a letter from the editor

Dear Class of 2010,

Your journey through college is sadly over but a new chapter begins. All the days and nights at the library, home or in your residence hall room have been worth it because you accomplished your goal: graduation. It is important to remember your favorite college professors, classmates, and friends they are ones who are a part of your memories. Besides your parents and family these people have become your "college family" and made you into the person you are today.

I am very close to graduating and this year a few of my "brave" friends graduated. I am scared of graduating because I am fearful of the unknown. Then I remember all of my accomplishments and adversity I have faced over the last couple of years. The truth is, I have nothing to be scared of. The same goes for you, graduates, you have graduated from a great university and you have nothing to be scared of either.

Congratulations Graduates!

Sincerely,

Jesse Schwartzman
Editor-in-Chief 2009-2010
